SELF-ADMINISTERED EUTHANASIA IS A TACIT MURDER

As smart these wearables pretend to be, their promise of self-administered euthanasia is dehumanizing and will never be a wise decision, here is why:

- Self-administered euthanasia has become a mundane action, weakening society's respect for life.
- Personalised medicine offers efficient palliative care making self-administered euthanasia unnecessary.
- Self-administered euthanasia confers an excessive responsibility to technologies, assuming they never fail us.
- Self-administered euthanasia relies on privacy issues, perversely recording and sharing this intimate choice to third-parties without any control.
- Does not offer reliable safeguards on questioning one's sanity, as euthanasia might not be in a person's best interest.
